STANDLEY BACK FROM RUSSIA

Washington Keeps Close Watch on Post-War Attitude of Soviets.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Soviet Russia's attitude toward the post-war plans of the United Nations concerned diplomatic Washington today following the return of William H. Standley, America's ambassador to the U.S.S.R.

Admiral Standley was scheduled to meet Secretary of State Cordell Hull to talk over Russia's role in the postwar world. The U. S. senate, which must ratify any peace treaty or foreign alliance, already has taken the "hands off" viewpoint until the views of Russia and England are known.

Many Americans are said to be distrustful of Premier Joseph Stalin and his Soviet regime. This group has been urging the negotiation of a treaty with the Soviets before the United States binds itself to any postwar peace program.

Senator Nye (R-ND) expressed the senate majority opinion this way: "The United States should not announce any postwar policy until both Russia and Britain have made their postwar aims clear."

There were indications that Standley would not return to Moscow. W. Averell Harriman has been prominently mentioned as the new ambassador.

Both houses of congress were in recess today.

Congressional fiscal experts began discussing means of raising an additional $12,000,000,000 on top of the $38,000,000,000 now collected annually. Principal point in the discussions, reports said, was a proposal to boost corporation levies by another 10 percent to raise the annual "take" to $50,000,000,000. The house ways and means committee will start work Oct. 4 on a new revenue bill.

The Ashland fire department, which answered the alarm at 11:05 p. m., battled the blaze with the assistance of fire departments from nine neighboring communities. The combined fire-fighting forces fought the quickly-spreading flames throughout the night.

The fire was brought under control about 6 a. m. today, nearly 24 hours after the initial alarm. A time shortly after the explosion, flames menaced the Big Erie tank car.

However, firemen under the direction of Ashland Chief Paul Jones succeeded in saving the tank car and a number of nearby buildings, including the Erie passenger depot.

The loss, considered the worst in the city's history, was caused by the explosion of a tank car carrying a highly volatile substance. The Erie passenger depot, which was badly damaged, was used as a temporary shelter for the city's firemen.

U. S. Soon To Build One Military Plane Every Five Minutes

Washington Keeps Close Watch on Post-War Attitude of Soviets.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Donald M. Nelson, U. S. war production board chairman, told the allies—and the axis as well—last night that United States war industry soon would be completing one military plane every five minutes.

Nelson, speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the British government, asserted that American war production this year would be at least one and one-half times the combined output of Germany and Japan. Next year, he promised, it probably will be twice as great.

Expressing belief that his figures would interest the Germans as well as his immediate audience, Nelson said the United States alone produced 110,000 war planes since Jan. 1, 1942, and that the production curve is still rising.

In that same period, America produced 60,000 tanks, 53,000 scout cars and carriers and 1,100,000 trucks and trailers, Nelson said, as well as more than 21,000 deadweight tons of merchant vessels and 3,000,000 displacement tons of naval vessels.

Enough artillery and ammunition has been produced in the United States to "let us fire 2,000 shots at every axis soldier," he disclosed.

SEIZE AIRFIELD IN NEW GUINEA

Australians Take Landing Strip at Finschhafen and Are Near Town.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 25.—The Finschhafen airfield has been wrested from the Japanese, according to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, a New Guinea base for his planes 75 miles from the enemy's strategically important bastion of New Britain.

Australians who landed from the sea six miles north of Finschhafen Wednesday captured the field and now are within three quarters of a mile of the town, headquarters reported today.

The impending capture of Finschhafen would add 60 more miles of shoreline—that between Finschhafen and Lae—to the New Guinea coastal region under allied control.

From Finschhafen's airfield it is an 85-mile flight to the enemy airbase of Cape Gloucester and 165 miles to the Gazan airfield. New Britain bases guarding the way up that crescent-shaped island to Rabaul, a stronghold with three airbases, are a good size of accommodation.

Today's communiqué reported that fighters, identified by a spokesman as P-40s, dive-bombed installations on the tiny island of Gasmata.

In other air activity reported today, Mitchell's swung inland along the Markham valley beyond positions seized by paratroopers Sept. 5. The bombers dropped many tons of explosives and fired 41,000 rounds of ammunition at Japanese trying a back door escape from the debacle at Lae. The Mitchell's roared as far as Raglan, 80 miles northwest of Lae, without spotting an enemy plane.

Driver License Sale Total Now 6,200

Approximately 6,200 drivers' and chauffeurs' licenses had been sold at noon today, James E. Messenger, deputy registrar of motor vehicles, reported. Around 2,100 were issued from his office in September, 1942, he said, which indicates that approximately 3,000 licenses remain to be purchased between now and the deadline at midnight next Thursday.

Mr. Messenger said that the office will be open from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Thursday next week, for the convenience of defense workers who can't get in during the daytime. The office was open Tuesday and Thursday nights this week.

3 Youths Fined For Gas Coupon Thefts

Three Marion youths, one aged 18, the others 19, were fined $50 and costs each by Judge W. Dexter Hazen when arraigned in municipal court today in connection with recent gasoline coupon thefts in Marion county and vicinity. All pleaded guilty to charges filed by Police Capt. Mackan. One was charged with receiving stolen property, another with petit larceny, and the third with removing parts from an automobile. Three other boys, involved in the thefts, aged 18 and 17, are held in the detention house pending arraignment in juvenile court.

$3,813,041 IS COUNTY TOTAL IN BOND DRIVE

Campaign To Enter Final Week; Ohio First "Big" State Over Top.

Marion county went into the home stretch of its Third War Loan campaign today with $3,813,041.75 on its score sheet.

That is 134 percent of its $2,829,000 goal and the figure is believed within striking distance of the new unofficial goal of $4,000,000 set by drive leaders. The drive was originally set to end Sept. 30, which is next Thursday, but national headquarters has since extended the date to Oct. 2 to allow a few days for final sales to clear through the bond issuing agencies.

Yesterday's sales in Marion county amounted to $33,013.25 and while the total was one of the lowest in recent days, leaders found a measure of satisfaction in the fact that the bulk of the day's purchases were made by individuals. The "E" series sales for the day amounted to $24,656.25. Sales of other issues included $4,100 in Series C, $1,000 each in Series C and Treasury 2 1/2 percent bonds and $2,257 in Series F.

Grand Prairie township, with R. T. Thew as chairman, was believed the first one to turn in a final report, listing sales totaling $13,775 in maturity value after a complete canvass of the territory.

Ohio Over the Top

Meanwhile, Ohio became the third state in the Union to go over the top in its war bond drive. The Associated Press reported from Washington, The Buckeye state quota of $698,000,000 has been exceeded by $5,000,000, figures tabulated yesterday showed. Ohio thus joined Maryland and Rhode Island as quota-breakers. The treasury department said Ohio was the first of the so-called "Big Six" states to beat the Oct. 2 deadline.

Drive leaders today issued a "personal appeal" directed to every resident of Marion county, asking each person to make it his or her personal responsibility to buy an EXTRA war bond before the Third War Loan drive ends.

"It may be that through unusual circumstances some residents of the county haven't been individually asked to buy an extra bond," Chairman Robert E. White said this morning. "I'd like to urge such persons not to wait until a bond salesman calls, or to wait

LARGER FIELD FOR MACARTHUR SEEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The Army and Navy Journal asserted editorially today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur should be "destined for direction of a far larger sphere of operations in the Pacific than he now commands."

The unofficial but authoritative publication declared that Chairman Chandler (D-Ky.) of the senate military affairs committee, upon his return from a tour of theaters of war, will urge in the senate that MacArthur be given supreme command of allied forces in the war against Japan.

It quoted MacArthur's statement that he favors "massive strokes against only main objectives utilizing surprise and air and ground striking power, supported and assisted by the fleet."

The Journal added that "this can only mean concentric and combined operations directed simultaneously from strategic points in all regions of the Pacific and East Asia. In other words, just as Europe is regarded as a single theater of war, General MacArthur desires the war upon Japan to be so defined."

RUSSIANS WIN THEIR BIGGEST VICTORY OF WAR

Key Citadel in German Defense System Now Evacuated.

By The Associated Press

Adolf Hitler's feeling that he had won the great central battle of Smolensk, 230 miles west of Moscow, the German high command revealed today in acknowledging one of the most disastrous defeats of the war.

The keystone citadel, hub for five rail lines, served as Hitler's headquarters in the ill-fated drive on Moscow in 1941.

A Nazi communiqué also conceded the loss of Rostov, 65 miles southeast of Smolensk, and Soviet dispatches said the capture of the Ukrainian capital at Kiev appeared imminent. Russian shock troops were reported attacking within one mile of Kiev.

The fall of Smolensk meant that the victorious Red armies had snatched the backbone of German defense at the central pivot of the 1,200-mile battle line and in all likelihood signalled the final collapse of Germany's hopes of winning her war with Russia.

Evacuation of the city, 210 miles northwest of threatened Kiev and 230 miles west of Moscow, was announced in a communiqué broadcast by DNB and recorded by The Associated Press.

Pleeting for 3 Weeks

Col. Ernst Von Hammer, military correspondent of the Nazi international information bureau with the German armies on the eastern front said in a dispatch broadcast by DNB that evacuation had started three weeks ago and that the Germans had successfully removed all their war plants to the west, while the communiqué declared that they had destroyed all military installations in the city.

The German war bulletin said that Nazi engineers were attacking in the Lake Ladoga region in the Leningrad salient and had repulsed Soviet tank-supported counter-attacks on the Murmansk sector in the far north.

The fall of Smolensk was regarded here as one of the most disastrous defeats suffered by German forces in the current Russian offensive.

In the nine months since a battered Red army three weeks back the Germans from Stalingrad, the Russians have accomplished two-thirds of their task of hurling the invaders from Soviet soil.

Hitler's steadily retreating forces have now given up all but about 230,000 of the 700,000 square miles of Soviet territory they held at the height of their successes, and hold only about three percent of Russia's 8,800,000 square-mile area.

Even in its easternmost penetration at Stalingrad the Germans occupied only about nine percent of that vast nation.

Since then the Red army has driven them westward 650 miles and now stands a bare 150 miles from the old Polish border. Austria.

Napoleon Fought At Smolensk in 1st Russian Battle

By The Associated Press

Various clues the "key to the door of Russia" and the "western gateway to Moscow," Smolensk now may become the springboard for Soviet advance into northern White Russia, Poland and the Baltic States.

The city is the scene of Napoleon's first real engagement in his Russian campaign 131 years ago. Napoleon, too, was unable to defeat the Russians, although he moved on and took Moscow after burning Smolensk.

There Napoleon attempted vainly to reorganize his forces on his disastrous path of retreat from Russia.

The ancient fortress was built by the Muscovite tatar, Boris Godunov, in 1609.

Smolensk stands in the Dnieper valley, which slices in a westerly direction squarely through the central Russian plateau. Sixty-five miles west of Smolensk, at Orsha, an important German supply and communications center, the river turns due south to flow to the Black sea.

Five rail lines converge at Smolensk, including the main line from Moscow to central Europe.

Smolensk before the war was the center of flourishing copper and iron smelting and machinery industries.

As an indication of its importance, the Germans had built such a deep defensive system that Adolf Hitler, himself, had called it one of the most strongly fortified cities in Europe.

Finding God Through Suffering

A SERMONETTE BY REV. E. H. WERTH
Pastor of First Evangelical and Reformed Church

"We know that in everything God works with those who love Him to bring about what is good. Romans 8:28."

SUFFERING in itself has no virtue and God is not pleased by the pain of man. But we can speak of finding God through suffering. The poets and seers of all ages have realized that pain lies near to joy, that they who walk with sorrow learn life's deepest meanings, and that suffering waits along the road that leads to God.

Suffering is not a thing apart, something that exists by itself. It belongs to life. That which separates man from the cloud is his capacity to feel. The higher you rise in the scale of life the greater that capacity. Without it there would be no light or sound to break upon our souls, no beauty for us or love or truth or God. But this very ability to feel means pain, alike of body and of spirit.

To live at the full means thus to open the door of suffering, that is to lose life itself. To look for suffering is fatalism, to fear it and flee it is cowardice and folly; to meet it bravely as life brings it, that is courage and wisdom. Suffering met in this spirit means character, as Jean Piaget, a French philosopher, suggests in his prayer:

Tempor my spirit, O Lord,
Keep it long in the fire;
Make it one with the flame. Let it share
That up-reaching desire,
Grasp it thyself, oh my God;
Swing it straighter and higher.

Suffering met in this way has brought the deepest insight to men. So it came to Dante in exile, to Hosea in the tragedy of his home, to Jesus on his way to the cross. I think of the insight gained by Helen Keller in the silence and darkness of her life; the struggle which evil necessities are one of the greatest blessings. It makes us strong, patient, helpful men and women. It lets us into the soul of things. The world is full of suffering. It is full also of the overcoming of it.

Suffering like this is a part of the way of service. It is no accident that the symbol of the world's highest religion, the cross, is one of suffering, the suffering with others and for others which we believe is the revelation of the very spirit of God.

The great folly of our day is the idea that suffering is the one evil of life. The great delusion is the thought that ease and pleasure are man's great good. The great need of this time of fear and catastrophe is a new confidence in life, a new courage for living, and a readiness to bear the toil and pain that life brings. We should be ready to say with Browning's Abt Vogler:

Then welcome each rebuff that turn earth's smoothness rough,
Each stinging that bids not sit nor stand but go!
Be our joys three parts pain.

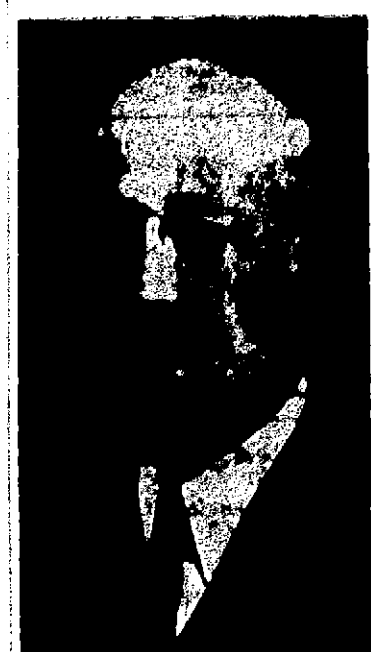

We need once more to gain inspiration from Him "who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross, despising shame."

The history of the congregation of First Evangelical and Reformed church, formerly First Reformed church, goes back farther than 100 years. Between the years of 1841 and 1843 Rev. J. VanLinder was itinerant pastor of a group of persons of the Reformed and Lutheran creeds who met in various places for religious services. The Reformed congregation was part of a charge of four including St. John's, southeast of Marion, St. John's, east, and Augusta.

In 1843 a modest brick church was erected on North-east street, now North State street. The building was owned jointly by the two congregations. All services were in the German language. After 40 years the Reformed congregation sold its interests to the Lutheran group, ground of the present location of the First church at 326 South Prospect street was purchased and a frame building constructed in 1883. In 1888 the English language was introduced in some Sunday school class work. In 1901 a new building was erected, but after 25 years it was proving inadequate to accommodate the growing numbers and in a few years another building was necessary. Ground was broken for the new edifice Aug. 5, 1920 on the same site on which the former church stood. The structure was erected in 1927.

Membership of the congregation is now 500 with 400 enrolled in Sunday school. A roster of past ministers includes Rev. VanLinder, Rev. J. Schladerman, Rev. J. G. Ruhl, Rev. John Winter, Rev. Eschmeier, Rev. Daniel Schroth, Rev. Friedrich Schaad, Rev. Daniel Schroth, Rev. Luther P. Gross, Rev. S. C. Wittliff, Rev. W. A. Settlage, Rev. Herbert Weckmuller, Rev. F. E. Zochel, Rev. A. ## Jews Looking To Palestine Zionist Leader Predicts a Million Will Settle There Shortly After War.

By International News Service

DENVER—Judge Louis E. Levithal of Philadelphia, president of the Zionist Organization of America, predicts that within three years after the war's end, one million Jews can be settled in a commonwealth in Palestine from their "homeless" in war-torn Europe.

Judge Levithal, who visited in Denver on a nationwide tour to solicit Zionist leaders, has been president of the organization for two years, and is in his seventh year in the Court of Common Pleas in Pennsylvania.

His statement was predicated on two major assumptions—the United States will win the war, and the British will keep their promise to allow foundation of a state in which the Jews may rest.

Many Jews wiped out. Judge Levithal said authorities figure between 2 and 3 million Jews have been "systematically, ruthlessly exterminated" in lands dominated by Hitler, thus diminishing the 5 million Semites whom it was once planned to resettle in Palestine. He estimated no more than one and one-half million will be in such need after the war.

"These will be released from the ghettos and concentration camps to which they were confined by Hitler," he explained. "They will go back to haunted houses where they will look upon the same locations where their loved ones were slain, their businesses taken away, their synagogues burned. I imagine the horrible psychological impact of that return."

"Going back to their old homes will be intolerable. These are the Jews who will want to go to Palestine, where, contrary to some reports, there is room for at least 2 million more residents.

Plan Justice for All. "The Zionist plan for Palestine envisages a democratic, progressive state in which there will be social, equal justice for every race and creed. It is hoped the Jews will be in the majority, but all will have freedom and representation modeled after the United States plan."

The main opposition to the plan he added, has been by Nazis and Fascists. He said the opposition within the Jewish faith is by a "small but influential group who have conjured up an idea of the plan, based on misunderstanding." "This will be on no chauvinistic state to which Jews of the world will divide their allegiance," he explained. "Jews in America, instead, will be even more loyal to their country because their fellow Jews have found haven."

A necessary preliminary, however, will be the British abrogation of the Chamberlain government's white paper of 1939, in which migration to Palestine was ordered to stop for Jews effective in March, 1944.

MARKET EXPECTS RECORD HOG RUN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—Traders in the livestock market were awaiting today a record run of swine, but they were unwilling to predict when the volume upturn would really begin.

When the announcement came of the OPA hog ceiling price of $14.75, which is to be imposed Oct. 4, some livestock observers expected that farmers would try to "jump the gun" and start shipments of hogs to market in large numbers.

Some opinions were that unfinished stock would flood the markets and that packers would get prices down to the ceiling level before it went into effect.

Actually figures from the food distribution administration show that there has not been a great increase in hogs received at the 12 principal markets to date. The drove price paid Thursday at Chicago was $15.09, highest since early spring.

Livestock experts at the Chicago stockyards say that there has been a season shift to heavier weight stock.

The average weight Thursday was 311 pounds as compared to 307 pounds a week ago and 278 pounds last year.

Of the 75 million spring pigs observers said that three-quarters of them now weigh from 160 to 180 pounds, too small for marketing. Farmers do not want to sacrifice weight in view of the small margin between the ceiling and present prices.

One stock man said that he could expect "the largest onslaught of hogs on the market ever seen in the near future."

THE GARDEN CLINIC New Federal Orders Expected To Assure Adequate Plumbing and Heating Supplies
By VICTOR H. KIES
O. S. C. Extension Floriculturist

Because plumbing and heating equipment is essential to health and the maintenance of production on the home front, the government has recently taken two steps which are expected to insure a more adequate supply of materials for necessary repairs and replacements, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

P-84 is known as the plumbing and heating emergency repairs preference rating order. The order as recently amended, assigns a preference rating of AA-13 to deliverers to a relief of plumbing and heating repair items and conversion parts. Formerly the order assigned only an A-10 rating.

Compliant with the revision of P-84 which is the order regulating repairs and replacements of plumbing and heating equipment, a plumbing and heating service trades department has been set up in the Office of Civilian Requirements. It will be the function of this office to insure the repair material is provided and the appropriate consideration is given to the supply of manpower, materials, and equipment consistent with military requirements.

It will be the function of the plumbing and heating service trades department of the OCR to power from the trades. The department will also point out the requirements of the nation's 45,000 plumbing and heating contractors in connection with gas-line, fires, fuel oil, tools, and other equipment necessary to the maintenance of repair and replacement services.

The bureau calls attention to the importance of having all repair and replacement work done under the supervision of reputable plumbing and heating contractors who are qualified for skill and experience to keep plumbing and heating equipment in good working order with the minimum use of critical materials and in conformity with existing municipal regulations and the best interests of the owner.

Because of wartime conditions, the repair and maintenance of plumbing and heating equipment has become more complex. Today, more than ever, the knowledge and skill of the licensed master plumber and the experienced heating and piping contractor vital to health protection as well as the efficient and economical operation of equipment.

A. Apparently, the so-called red and blue hydrangeas which you purchased are among the many strains that do not bloom in Ohio. Most of these greenhouse plants will bloom only on hot years in wood and consequently have to be carried over in the cellar as cuttings or pots in order to produce bloom. Then, if the soil is not so fertile, and the flowers are not so large, and still they will not bloom. Although many of the plants advertised in catalogues

Q. How much yeast should I add to a plumbing fixture to drop up a slight stoppage in my cesspool in the country?

A. Dissolve six yeast cakes in lukewarm water in any plumbing fixture, allowing it to run down into the drain. Do not use hot water as this would kill the action of the yeast. You can also get a commercial product that will answer the purpose very well.

Q. When I fill my kitchen sink the water runs out in the joint between the sink and the drain-board. What should I do?

A. Fill the joint with a caulking compound, which you can get at a paint or hardware store. Try not to fill the sink with too much water.

Q. We have a double flat home and the front part was built in 1938 and the rear was added in 1948. The dining room floor in our upper flat (the old part) has begun to sag during the last few years, and it squeaks a good deal when walked upon. The floor is hardwood and in good condition. What can be done with this floor and how can we eliminate the squeaks?

A. You would do well to have a competent builder examine the condition of the floor joists at the point of sagging. If the floor has started to sag after all these years, and continues to do so, there may be a serious condition that should be looked into and corrected without delay. The repair work will also take care of the squeaks.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

FOR TIME CHANGE.
Editor of The Star: I am writing these few lines to express the feeling just now of the proposed time change had to be put through the council as an emergency measure. When this question was debated, expiring the time was left as it was with the understanding that it would revert to Eastern Standard time Oct. 3. The least that could have been done was to give the question a fair reading in the usual way other matters are acted upon.

Parents of school children, school and church officials and a goodly number of shops are all in favor of the change, to do nothing of the thousands of other who are tired of working half the time in darkness during the winter on a "day light" shop.

Our own state representative voted in favor of the bill which was passed by the state legislature. Five of our city councilmen voted the same way while should show the trend of the public views on the matter. Now are told it was an emergency measure (to insure its defense) while council has had all summer to give it a fair reading and vote. Other cities and even states have made the change without confusion. Utility companies have stated under question, there is no savings made under W. time. In fact there just simply don't seem to be one good reason for the so-called "day li savings time."

we have bills enough emergency bills from the pres-council. The garbage rate increis another good example.

The five members of council who constitute the major-should stand pat on this meas-and bring it up again at regulegislation.

"Stage Door Canteen" Heads Week's Program at Palace

One of Leading Roles Is Lon McCallister, Who Has Been in Marion with Troupe Appearing in "Home in Indiana."

"Stage Door Canteen" with 48 stars on stage, screen and radio, and a name orchestra, started at the Palace theater and will continue through Wednesday.

Lon McCallister, who sky-dived to fame as the lone survivor of the "Stage Door Canteen" troupe, is one of the stars in the picture, which is a comedy of the "canteen" type recently in the "Home in Indiana."

Since March 1942, when the "Stage Door Canteen" in New York opened its doors to soldiers and sailors, millions of civilians have fired one question at the men who had visited the canteen: "What's it like?"

Knowing that civilians are not allowed in the canteen, servicemen usually obliged curious people by describing in detail what goes on inside of the New York canteen. Now civilians can actually see what the place is really like and get a glimpse at the same time of 48 celebrities of stage, screen and radio who appear at the canteen as workers.

Well keyed to the glamorous setting is the simple love story of an American soldier about to leave for overseas duty and a beautiful Broadway actress who is hostess of the canteen. When he meets the lovely Eileen, Cheryl Walker, his love at first sight for "Dakota" Smith, William Terry.

Donald O'Connor in "Mister Big," with Gloria Jean and Peggy Ryan, will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

Five versus the classics, is the theme of "Mister Big" and the idea has been developed for the screen in entertaining style with Donald O'Connor, Gloria Jean and Peggy Ryan cast as the juveniles. Locals of the story is a School of the Theater, where a gang of five-minded kids mingle boogie-woogie with highbrow compositions.

The technically perfect production for Army Emergency Relief uses all 350 of the original cast plus heavyweight champion Sgt. Joe Louis. A large cast of motion picture and radio stars was added as were some old and new Irving Berlin songs.

Hollywood is richly represented by, among others, George Murphy, Joan Leslie, Lt. Ronald Reagan, George Tobias, Alan Hale, Charles Butterworth and Una Merkel.

Radio's great star, Kate Smith, sings "God Bless America," which she introduced to the nation over the air waves. Frances Langford puts over the new Berlin number, "What Does He Look Like?" while Gertrude Niesen sings some of the composer's World War I tunes.

A screen story was built around the show, linking together the generations of the two World wars and giving the production a plot interest which the stage version lacked.

Coming to the Ohio screen Friday for a seven-day engagement is "Claudia," starring Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young. "Claudia" has had a brilliant career in the pages of Redbook magazine, as a novel, on the stage and radio, and now on the screen.

"Claudia" is a thoroughly unpredictable young matron. Happily married to a successful architect, she lives in their newly-acquired farm some 40 miles out of New York City. Around her activities is woven an unconventional plot, which finds her at first a flighty teen age girl and moves with her to maturity.

Robert Young is Claudia's husband in the film and Ina Claire portrays her patient mother.

OPA Eyes Sale Of Farm Equipment

Farm equipment auctioneers were today advised by the regional office of price administration that they are required to notify the nearest district OPA office of every scheduled public or private sale of used farm equipment at least six days before the sale, according to OPA officials at Columbus.

The notice should include the place, date and time of the sale and a copy of any announcement regarding the sale, OPA officials explained.

At the same time, farmers and equipment auctioneers were advised that used hay loaders, side delivery rakes and manure spreaders have been added to the list of used equipment under specific price control.

These pieces of equipment have been added to those already under price control such as used combines, corn binders, corn pickers, farm tractors (except crawlers) and motor or tractor-operated hay balers.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

MY FATHER did not answer my question until he had taken Marion's spotter for the arm and eased him into a chair.

Then he spoke, with crisp emphasis:

"Yes, we have news of Marion," he said, "and you shall know everything about it just as soon as I get Richard back in here. He is in the next apartment."

He walked through my bedroom door and on to the communication suite. As soon as his back was turned, Harry flashed me a look of agonized appeal, and knowing that he was a reader of parts, I framed a reassuring message with my lips.

"Marion safe and well. News good. Relax."

Harry is Reassured

The look of panic went out of his eyes, although his attitude still was tense as his lips framed: "Thank you and bless you," just before my father returned with Dick.

My father looked directly from Harry's face to mine, then the ghost of a smile touched his lips.

"I see Margaret has assured you that our news is good news," he said. "I'll forgive her for the breach of discipline, because I should have assured you of that fact the first thing. Forgive me, my dear fellow."

He had walked to Harry's side as he spoke, and he shook the big man's extended hand heartily. Dick, right behind him, clasped his oldest friend warmly on the shoulder in a gesture I had seen him use on numberless occasions.

Must Get to Work

"And now," my father said briskly, "let us get to work and bring you up to date as rapidly as possible. We have less than a quarter of an hour for that task, and for the council of war which must follow, for Margaret and I must be ready to start for Hal Meredith's office, for the showdown with Ruth Hayes almost at once."

"Ah, yes," the big man said, in a tone which told me that my father had already informed him of the forthcoming removal of the Ruth Hayes menace.

Dick already had brought up chairs and, as we seated ourselves, my father told first of Ronald's glimpse of Marion in the car which stopped for a second beside him, then of the waiter, Crump, who had brought us the story of the obviously disguised woman at the restaurant, and the letter she had dropped with a silent appeal to him to deliver it.

Quickly he went on to our discovery that the letter was in code, adding that Mary had translated it. Then, without giving Harry a chance to put a question, my father turned to me.

Asks Midge to Translate

"Margaret, will you read or repeat the translation which Mary made of that code letter?" he asked.

"I have it right in my paper," I answered, drawing out the paper. I already ran it by heart, as the children say, and I was able to repeat Harry Underwood's face from beneath my lashes as I read out the messages of his stepdaughter, as dear to him as any child of his own could have been.

Amazement and a flash of joy crossed his face, followed by a look of horror, as if he were looking into some awful abyss.

But that expression vanished as quickly as it had come, and his features set to a look of stern resolution as I had read him wear but three or four times in all the years of the close friendship between the Underwood family and ours.

Sums It Up

"So it sums up this way," he said crisply, when my father had finished. "Marion knows she is in grave danger, and she is as afraid as she was when she wrote the other code letter that if the conspirators get hold of that knowledge about Jack Hickett and his cryptograms, she will be killed."

"For reasons of their own," he went on, "the gangsters are permitting her a little more liberty, evidently hoping they can get something more out of her. Marion has read the other personals, and wishes us to put in others, if we get this letter from the waiter. Is that correct?"

"In every detail," my father said.

"Then," the big man said tensely, "it looks to me as if there wasn't a minute to lose."

"I agree with you," my father replied. "That's why I am calling this council of war."

Chronic Invalid

PLATO, in his Dialogues, thus describes at one place a person named Hippias:

"He had a mortal disease which he perpetually tended, and as recovery was out of the question he passed his whole life as an invalid; he could do nothing but attend upon himself and was a constant torment whenever he departed in anything from his usual regimen, and so dying hard, by the help of science, he struggled on to an old age, a rare reward of his skill."

The type did not die out in Plato's day. Everyone must know one or two examples of the chronic self-made invalid.

Doctors know plenty. And any time one fails the least in sympathy or suggests that maybe there isn't anything very serious the matter after all, the chronic invalid flares up and says, "Well, you don't think I enjoy being sick, do you? I wouldn't make myself sick, would I?" But that is just what they do. I am in receipt of a very interesting book with a suggestive subtitle — "A Study of the Will to be Sick."

These people have the will to be sick, even though they don't recognize it.

Of all the nervous invalids, the nervous dyspeptic are the most nervous. This can be explained on the basis that the digestive tract is the most primitive structure in the anatomy. The lowest, simplest animals are all stomach. As we ascend in the scale, a nervous system grows up around the stomach. And man still has a good deal of nervous system around his stomach, and the stomach and digestive system respond to emotions more readily than any other organic system in the body.

Thus emotions certainly stop appetite — an axiom. And they cause nausea. And the nervous system causes spasms in the stomach, or intestine, which pass for indigestion or dyspepsia.
